Cincinnati Roundup

By ROY B. PARKER

Mrs. Lillian Wright of Milton Court is out again following a recent operation.

Considerable excitement swept Brown Chapel AME church last Sunday morning when Mrs. Mable Embry, prominent church and Sunday school worker was carried out sick. She later recovered and is now feeling fine.

Mr. William Harrison of Larona ave., was hospitalized for a day or two last week, but was much better over the weekend.

Mrs. Cannie King of Foraker ave., who was seriously ill in Jewish hospital a few weeks ago is now progressing nicely at home.

Mr. Sam Saunders, who recently underwent an emergency operation in Jewish hospital is recovering nicely in his Union St. home under the loving care of his devoted wife, Mary, and daughter, Kay.

The ladies of the BRB Womens club of First Baptist church, Walnut Hills, met at the church last Saturday evening in their monthly meeting, with the president, Mrs. Helen Martin, presiding. Echoes of the club's great fashion show held last month in the Federated Club house, were heard in several fine reports of the chairmen, and then the ladies enjoyed delicious refreshments.

Cincinnati will be sorry to see one of its outstanding educators go into retirement at the end of this school year, in the person of Dr. George A. Phillips, principal of Stowe Elementary school for the past 20 years and prominent in many areas of education locally and elsewhere. A native of Paulding County, Ohio, Dr. Phillips is an AB from Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo, Michigan and M. A. and Ph. D. from University of Cincinnati. He taught for 15 years, beginning in 1929, on the summer faculty of Tennessee State college.

After such a rich, outstanding and fruitful career in the education field, it is hardly possible for Dr. Phillips to divorce himself entirely from some line of endeavor. With heartiest wishes, we hail his farewell from the Cincinnati teaching scene, but expect to hear of his taking a new responsibility in some new field where his great talents can be used. Certainly he has played a great part in helping Cincinnati build a matchless reputation for fine schools.

Gently laid to rest in Union Baptist Cemetery last Saturday following services in Jerriel Baptist church, was the late Mrs. Creola Moragne of 1556 Dudley st. The wife of Mr. Isaac Moragne, well known insurance man, Mrs. Moragne, died suddenly, following childbirth.

Among those who came to Cincinnati to attend funeral rites were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Puryear of Pensacola, Fla., Mr. Puryear is a brother of the deceased. Other relatives coming for the rites were Abert Puryear of Uriah, Ala., Odis Puryear of New Haven, Conn., Jack Puryear and wife, Louise, of Newark, Ohio, and Auburn Puryear of Newark, Ohio.

The Hamp Jamison Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Vice Mayor Theodore M. Berry left Cincinnati last Thursday with a notable group of local educator and civic leaders for a two day visit at the new Air Force Academy at Denver, Colo.

It was stated that the group was to meet with Academy officials and get an overall picture of the curriculum development, inspect the site of the future permanent academy, lunch with the cadets and be guests at two formal dinners hosted by the commanding general.

Besides Vice Mayor Berry, those in the group included Dr. Ralph C. Bursiek, vice president, University of Cincinnati, Dr. Joseph Holliday, assistant dean, University of Cincinnati, College of Liberal Arts, Rev. Robert H. Bassman, S. J., chancellor, Xavier university, Dr. Luois Pechstein sr., vice president, College Conservatory of Music, Dr. Elvis J. Stahr, provost and dean, law school, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Dr. C. W. Kreger, provost, Miami university, The Very Rev. John Murphy, president, Villa Madonna College, Covington, Ky., Dr. Claude Courter, superintendent of Cincinnati public schools, Msgr. Carl J. Ryan, superintendent of parochial schools, Dr. Charles B. Crouch, superintendent, Hamilton County schools, Robert E. Dunnville, president, Crosley Broadcasting Corp., Brady Black, managing editor, Cincinnati Inquirer, Leo Hirtl, city editor, Cincinnati Post, Msgr. R. Marcellus Wagner, vicar general, Archdiocese of Cincinnati and Roger Wachendorf, vice president, Wachendorf Associates, Inc.

The Cincinnati group is one of several from various sections of the nation being invited to Denver for inspection of the new Air Force installation.

Dr. Joseph Link, jr., assistant professor of economic, Xavier university, functioned as liaison officer in Cincinnati for the Air Force to facilitate preparations for the trip.

Miss Juanita Ross of Washington Terrace and who is in charge of the Health Department at Central State college is scheduled to say "I do" to Mr. Richard Dunlap, a Cincinnati man, on Sept. 29, we hear. Plans for the wedding are as yet incomplete.

On May 25 and 26 at Brown Chapel AME church, Dr. Milton S. J. Wright of Wilberforce university, will serve as consultant to the Leadership Training Course to be conducted under the auspices of local district AME leaders.

We have heard of the grand work being done by Alcoholics Anonymous that meets every Monday and Thursday at Wehrman Ave., Christian church and we hail Rev. John R. Compton, the dynamic pastor of Wehrman ave. Christian church for lending his church quarters for such a worthy cause. We need more ministers like Rev. Compton who not only see a grave problem, but does something about it.

And while we're talking about Rev. Compton, may we also point out that since he took charge at the small Hilltop Christian church, the congregation has expanded so greatly, that officers of the church are anxiously seeking to buy or build a new church. Rev. Compton and his attractive young wife, a teacher at Cummins Public school, are indeed doing a grand job for the Master of Wehrman ave., Christian church.

At a recent meeting of local Baha'is, Mrs. Jennie McFarland, Douglass school office secretary and Mrs. Kay Austin were among nine members elected to the Cincinnati Assembly.

Dr. John W. Shungu of Africa is coming to Mt. Zion Methodist Church on May 13 to tell of events now transpiring in the fermenting Dark continent. Many plan to hear him.

Condolences flooded in upon Mrs. Lucy K. Asbury of 715 Whittier st., last week following the passing of her mother. Mrs. Emma H. Grace for whom Funeral services were held on Tuesday, May 7 at 11 a.m., at the Thompson Funeral Home, 820 Lincoln ave., with burial in Beechgrove Cemetery. Mrs. Grace passed at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Asbury on May 4.

The Cincinnati Chapter, Widows of World War One Veterans held their monthly meeting at the Walnut Hills Y Tuesday evening.

A large attendance is again anticipated at Carmel Presbyterian's annual Women's Day, to be held this year, May 13, at spacious First United Church, in Avondale at Lee Place and Reading Rd. Guest is Mrs. Yolande H. Chambers, assisted by Mesdames John Joiner, Coralie Jackson and Helen Humphrey.
