

PHILADELPHIA'S UNITED CAMPAIGN OPENS

Civic and welfare workers of both races joined in the opening dinner-meeting which recently opened Philadelphia's annual United Campaign. A total of 1,600 people filled the grand ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel and overflowed into adjoining rooms. These represented some 8,000 other solicitors who must raise $4,000,000 by the end of the month, for the support of 141 hospitals, nurseries, clinics, orphanages and recreation centers. At the speakers' table, in top panel, is Dr.

Leslie Pinckney Hill (extreme right), president of Cheyney State Teachers college and chairman of the United Campaign's cooperative committee. To his right are Mrs. Isidore Kohn and John S. Sinclair, president of the Federal Reserve bank of Philadelphia. In the panel below can be seen Dr. Eugene T. Hinson, of Mercy hospital; Mrs. Helen S. Bayton, of Y. W. C. A. board, and Miss Mamie Davis, executive secretary of Southwest Y. W. C. A. In the lower picture is a delegation from the Women's Union Day Nursery.
