

T. B. Groups Announce '42 Plaque Tilt

NEW YORK. (ANP). — A competition among Negro art students for designing a plaque has been announced by the National Tuberculosis association. The plaque selected will be given each year to those high schools and colleges in which Negro students write prize winning essays on tuberculosis.

Richmond Barthe, prominent sculptor and artist, is chairman of the committee. The other members who will assist in selecting the outstanding plaque are: James L. Ailen, E Sims Campbell, Meta Warwick Fuller, Wilmer Jennings, Sargent Johnson, Alain Locke, Archibald J. Motley, Laura Wheeler Waring and Helen A. Whiting.

The competition will close March 30. A grand prize of $25 will be awarded to the designer of the best plaque. First-prize money in each group will be $15, second prize $10, and there will be three honorable mentions of $5 each.
