

DR. SARAH MARTIN PEREIRA, profesor of Romance Languages at Tennessee A. & I. State University, is shown chatting with two friends at the Baha'i House of Worship, where the 53rd annual convention of the Baha'is of the United States was held recently. On Dr. Pereira's left is Alejandro Roderiguez, member of the Local Spiritual Assembly of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and on her right is Amos Gibson, Negro teacher who resigned his position at Brown Junior High school, Washington, D. C., in 1955, to become a teacher on the Navajo Indian reservation, New Mexico. Gibson has been appointed an assistant to the Trustees of the Baha'is representing every state in the union and observers from as far away as Africa and New Zealand attended the convention.
