Editor Smith Runs Well

The complete unofficial vote for governor in the Republican primaries was: Carmel A. Thompson, 290,421; Charles L. Knight, 16,061; Homer Durand and the United Brotherhood of Friendship and the Sisters of Mysterious Ten, 51,637; Arthur Day, who had the support of the soldier vote, 37,900; Editor Harry Clay Smith, Race candidate, 16,327; Daniel W. Williams, 14,571; J. W. Durnell, 6,244. Editor Smith's friends had great consolation for the fact that he was not the last candidate in the race for governor and predict the addition of 20,000 votes on the official count. The exceeding popularity of Thompson as a business man throughout the state and the perfect junction of the Hamilton and Cuyahoga (Cleveland) Republicans behind Mr. Thompson proved a wonderful help to his tremendous success. The Gazette, of which Hon. Harry C. Smith is editor, says: "The perfect junction of the Hamilton and Cuyahoga Republican organizations, against whom Knight directed his attacks particularly, cost him and other candidates, particularly Harry Clay Smith of Cleveland, thousands of votes. State Representative Harry E. Davis, who dominated for his second term, representing our Group, was backed by the county Republican organization. He made a splendid run. Charles F. Weaver, our other candidate for the state legislature, lost out, we regret to report. He was accompanied by Samuel R.
