

Atlanta Schoolmarm On Whirl Of Social Courtesies During Savannah, Ga. Visit

SAVANNAH, Ga. — Miss Joyce C. Wilson, prominent teacher in Atlanta, recently took time out from her studies at Atlanta university to visit a co-worker, Mrs. Paulyne Morgan White, who is doing intern work in journalism in the publications office of Savannah State college during the Summer session.

Mrs. White was hostess at a luncheon in Miss Wilson's honor at the Barnard st. residence of her cousin, Mrs. Della Gray.

Friends, relatives and office co-workers gathered there to meet the charming house guest and enjoyed a tasty repast. A pink floral arrangement of rosebuds provided the attractive center of the table overlaid with an beautiful imported white silk organza over silk sent to her from London, England by her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Jackson Ellsberry.

Among the charming, noted and interesting guests sharing the delightful interlude were Mesdames Pinder Franklin, public school teacher in Savannah; Doreatha Kennedy Wells, also a teacher in Savannah's public school system; Emily Singleton Chisholm editor and wife of the publisher of Savannah's "Around Our Town" magazine.

OTHERS NOTED

Mrs. Lillian Allen Powell, secretary, public relations office, Savannah State college; Helen Lois Tindell, secretary, Chatham County Agricultural Extension Services, Savannah; Misses Rosemary Singleton, faculty secretary, Savannah State College and Bettye Jane Walker, physical education instructor of Youngstown, Ohio.

During the evening a variety of subjects were discussed, travel a favorite among them.

Mrs. White told of her travels in Canada, Europe, of the Shakespearian Festivals, foreign foods, fashions while Mrs. Wells compared ideas about experiences in Jamaica.

Mrs. Tindell, just back from Nassau told of many new impressions experienced there and Miss Walker was eloquent about her travel experiences in America, Canada, Europe, Australia, Europe and Haiti where she has resided for some time.

TEACHERS FOR BAHAI

This Summer Miss Walker is serving as a traveling circuit teacher for Baha'i World Faith in the Eastern states of America. Aside from hearing about her interesting travels, guests were interested to learn that she has taught on five levels of education in Virginia, Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio.

She also is a member of several national organizations, including Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Ind., and the Links, Inc. Mrs. White's house guest and Miss Walker also toured the city and visited the historical moss laden campus of Savannah State where they met several faculty instructors.
