

1,000 Teachers Expected At Meeting

The American Teachers association expects over 1,000 members to attend the annual convention July 23 to 25 at North Carolina college for Negroes.

Purpose of the conference will be to acquaint members with new approaches in interracial education, and to ascertain what efforts are being made by schools for Negro children to emphasize these approaches in their instruction.

Dr. Alain Locke of the University of Wisconsin, Miss Helen Mudgett, director of education for the Farmers' union, and Lloyd Cooke, of the American Council on Race Relations, have been invited to appear on the program.
