Under the sponsorship of the race amity committee of the Chicago Baha'i fellowship, a series of free public lectures has been announced this week for members of the Baha'i group and the general public. Prominent speakers for the first lectures in the series have been secured by Mrs. Fred Mortensen, 7111 Rhodes avenue, chairman of the committee. The lectures will be held in Chicago headquarters assembly room, 116 South Michigan avenue, and will be attended by many of the 500 Baha'i believers living in Chicago.

Dr. Philip Seman, chairman of the Chicago recreation commission and director of the Jewish People's Institute, will open the series of lectures next Wednesday evening, October 28, speaking on the question, "Is Education the Cause of the Present Day Dilemma?" The second speaker on Wednesday, November 18, will be Dr. Isamu Tashiro, Japanese philanthropist and authority who has just returned to America, after spending the summer in Japan. "The Human Side of Japanese Life" will be his theme, and his lecture will be illustrated by colored slides to be shown on this occasion for the first time.

On December 16, the speaker will be A. L. Foster, director of the Chicago Urban League. His topic will be, "The Negro in Chicago". Charles Good, director of the WPA education tours and staff members of the Board of Education, will discuss "Universal Education" as the fourth lecture in the series January 24.

Each program will also include a short talk by a member of the Baha'i group. The speakers will include Mrs. Mabel Ives of Winnetka; Carl Sceffler, 1821 Lincoln street, Evanston; Mr. Albert Windluft of Chicago; and Mrs. Philip Marangella and Mumford Mills of New York City.

There is no admission charge for the lectures and no collection will be taken.
