

Pelle To Bahais; 'Down To Earth Before Up To Moon'

Salvatore A. Pelle, Director of Public Information for the Baha'i Community of the United States, will speak at the public meeting at the Baha'i House of Worship, Wilmette, at 3:45 p.m., Sunday, February 23. His topic will be "Tomorrow the Moon, When Do We Get To Earth?"

Mr. Pelle's talk will be concerned with the paradox of mankind about to embark on an era of space travel to other worlds, but has yet to solve the major problems that keep this world, Earth, in turmoil. The speaker will discuss some of the problems such as hunger, illiteracy, war and poverty, and give the Baha'i viewpoints on these world-encompassing problems.

Before assuming his present position as Director of Public Baha'i Center, Mr. Pelle was director of information for the Air Force for 24 years, retiring Information at the National in 1966 with the rank of Colonel.

Mr. Pelle is the author of several studies on space travel and has lectured widely on the subject. He was one of the organizers of the Cape Kennedy Chapter of the American Rocket Society.

Mr. Pelle will hold an informal question and answer period following his talk on Sunday, to which the interested visitors are invited. The lecture follows the regular program of devotions at 3 o'clock.
