

Baha'i Race Unity Day Set For June 14

Members of the Chicago Baha'i Community will observe Race Unity Day, Sunday, June 14, 1 P. M. at the Baha'i Center, 116 S. Michigan Ave.

"Who can bring us together" is the topic to be discussed by Lawrence Kramer, former member of the Chicago Local Spiritual Assembly. Purpose of the day is to focus attention on America's most challenging issue—the racial problem and stress the essential oneness of mankind under God.

Kramer says,

"While the U. S. has made great strides in correcting the injustices suffered by racial groups, there still remains much to be done. A real solution to the racial problem will never be achieved until we do more than seek just legal justice for all. We believe that the missing ingredients in the solution of the racial problem are the lack of real love in the hearts of men and the absence of altruism.

"Without these missing ingredients, we cannot really be successful in getting the different races and nationalities to live together in harmony and accord. The only power that can develop and foster this love and altruism in men everywhere is the bounty of God.

"Achieving the unity of mankind is the most critical challenge facing America today.

The violence and destruction inflicted upon this nation as a result of its failure to remove the various forms of discrimination and unjust restriction against persons of minority and racial groups is an outward sign of a grave spiritual sickness."

The public is invited. Admission is free and refreshments will be served.
