

Famous Tragedienne Gives Series of Baha'i Lectures

Madame Barry-Orlova, famous European tragedienne who will give a series of Baha'i lectures in Chicago, has been lecturing daily for the past month in the auditorium in Milwaukee, attracting thousands by the interesting recital of her experiences during the Russian revolution and the application of the teachings of Baha'u'llah to present world problems.

Prominent among those who have given unstinted praise to Madame Orlova are Princess Metternich of Vienna, the Duchess of Marlborough and the Duchess of Northumberland in England and the late Czarina of Russia.

She became interested in the Baha'i teachings about a year ago and after an intensive study of the writings of Baha'u'llah has decided to devote her life to the spreading of his message to the world.

Madame Orlova will give nine lectures in Chicago: three in the Masonic temple, 32 W. Randolph St., Oct. 9, 16 and 23; three in the Baha'i temple at Wilmette, on Sunday afternoons, Oct. 7, 14 and 21, at 3:30 p. m.; and three on Friday evenings in the Lake View building, 116 S. Michigan Ave., Oct. 12, 19 and 26, at 8:15 p. m.
