

jail last week, where he will be held pending the decision of a lunacy commission.

He was located near his home in Oyster Point lying in a ditch. County Officer Melvin J. Yoder said the man had been in poor health recently.

BOOTS

May Keep Drowned Man's Body Below Surface

(Reprinted from last week's City Edition)
Journal and Guide Bureau

NEWPORT NEWS—Heavy rubber boots he was wearing may prevent the body of Albert Holloway, Gloucester oysterman, who was drowned in the small boat harbor here on Dec. 26, from rising to the surface for several weeks, it was predicted here this week by firemen, who have been dragging the harbor for the missing corpse.

Holloway fell overboard from an oyster boat which was entering the harbor.

Scholarship Is Given Hampton By Editor Abbott

(Reprinted from last week's City Edition)
Journal and Guide Bureau

HAMPTON, Va. — Following close upon the recent announcement that Editor Robert Sengstacke Abbott, Chicago publisher, had given a set of rugs to Hampton Institute for one of its reading rooms, comes a statement of a second gift from this alumnus.

Dr. Arthur Howe has received from Mr. Abbott a scholarship of $100.00 for some worthy student of Hampton during the coming year.

Man Found In Ditch To Face Lunacy Hearing

(Reprinted from last week's City Edition)
Journal and Guide Bureau

NEWPORT NEWS — Finally caught by police after he had wandered about city streets for more than 24 hours attired only in his underwear, John Smith, 60, was taken to the Warwick county