NEW YORK—Dr. Alain Locke, special editor of the November issue of Survey Graphic entitled, "Color: Unfinished Business of Democracy," has been named to the editorial board of the famous publication. Dr. Locke will serve as a contributing editor.

The appointment of the noted Howard university professor came as "recognition of his successful editing of the issue," said an announcement. The November number was the seventh in a series of special editions entitled "Calling America."

Other contributions along cultural and social lines will appear regularly in the publication that calls itself a "journal of social interpretation."

Dr. Locke began his journalistic career with the special Harlem of Survey Graphic, in 1925. The issue was later re-published in book form as "The New Negro."
