

SIoux INDIANS JOIN BAHa'I COMMUNITY

When the annual national Baha'i convention met in Chicago recently, Sioux Indians from the Standing Rock Sioux Indian Reservation who are members of the Ft. Yates, North Baha'i community attended. Registering the visitors is Dr. Sarah M. Pereira of Teachers College, Washington, D.C. and a member of the National Spiritual

Assembly of the Baha'i of the U.S. (From left are) Lawrence Standing Crow, Emma Flying, Edward Iron Eyes and Sam Flying. Some 1,000 delegates and visitors from 48 states and Puerto Rico were present at the four-day convention which elected the governing body of the Faith in the U.S. for the next 12 months.