

G.E. Mitchell Baha'i Speaker

"The Spiritual Revolution" will be discussed at the Baha'i House of Worship by National Baha'i Secretary, Glenford E. Mitchell, 3:45 p.m. this Sunday, July 6. The public meeting will present a challenging point of view as to America's spiritual destiny.

That these are times of chaos for religious and secular institutions is clear, and Mr. Mitchell's address will indicate the direction of Divine guidance expressed in the writings of the founder of the Baha'i Faith, Baha'u'llah, and in subsequent messages addressed particularly to American believers. It is of special interest during this national holiday weekend to consider that the son of the Baha'i prophet was in the United States in 1912 and in his talks at that time forecast much of the social turmoil which confronts our country today, and at the same time indicated the spiritual greatness that could be the nation's if the nation turned toward God.

Mr. Mitchell, has been Secretary of the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United States for the past year, and a resident of Wilmette for two years. He was head of the Department of Youth and College Activities before being elected to his present position. Mr. Mitchell holds a bachelor's degree from Shaw University, and Master's in Journalism from Columbia University. He has served on the faculty of Howard University in Washington, and as co-editor of the magazine "Africa Report."

Following the public talk, visitors are invited to meet with Mr. Mitchell in informal discussion in the Fireside Room at the House of Worship. References on the Baha'i Faith are available for study in the Reading Room.
